

Family Legal Help Centre

Because issues relating to Family Law are often critical and emotionally intense, having an attorney who specializes in this area of law will ensure that you have the best representation possible. Robert MacLeod has, for the past 16 years exclusively practiced family law. From the simplest family issues to the most complex, Rob will take the time to fully understand his client's concerns and goals in order to confidently advise his clients of their rights and obligations resulting in informed decisions. Once the best course of action has been determined, Rob will aggressively pursue his client's rights ensuring the most desirable results.

Whether your issues arise from a common law relationship, traditional marriage or same sex relationship, Rob's skill & experience in the areas of mediation, negotiation, settlement and the enforcement of family laws enable him to guide you through the process of effectively resolving pressing family matters.
